

Q: Does it make sense to use inheritance here? Explain.

A:

No, the reason is as following:

Though rigidly binds these classes together, but it's contrary to the LSP principles (Liskov Substitution Principle). During execution, the class Circle's area computation method doesn't match the Cylinder's volume computation method, they are totally different behaviors and don't relate too much.